With F.M.L.

These youngsters keep doing things.

James Hollas, late of the Corpus Christi Caller-Times, has received the Doc Sellers Journalism Scholarship at the University of Texas Journalism Dept. for 1967-68. And he will be parttime sports copy editor at the Austin American-Statesman. We are proud of him.

Maybe someday ol' 108 will get a better job through such successful associates.

108-108-108

Thus far, this has been one of the most beautiful weeks of the year.

We understand the rains over the weekend took "drought" out of current vocabulary of concern.

The rains did make the grass grow. By now, everyone knows of 108's lethargy in the mowing department.

Someday, we might take the idea proposed by one Cameronite and practiced in a related way in Arizona cities of Phoenix and Tucson.

The idea for people allergic to grass care, like me, is to pave all the area around the house and paint it green.

In some parts of the Southwest, people have sand yards, due to limited rainfall. Some actually cement the yard and paint it green or even other colors.

It sounds improbable until one sees steady rains make the grass grow up every week, month in, month out, through the summer.

Seems that 108 earned the first quarter he ever had back in the antiquity of the '30's by mowing a neighbor's lawn, terrace and all.

It was the same small terrace, with grape arbor at the bottom, which taught me skis wouldn't work. I ended up, head down, in the vines of the grape arbor.

No snow problem in Central Texas, is there? We are happy to see the rains that make the grass grow tall that makes us lazy louis growl about how much work we're going to have to get out of.

Martin doesn't know what his career will be in his remaining formative years, but you and I know, don't we? That lawn mower will be waiting.

Two-Inch Rains Boost Milam Crop Prospect

2.19 Inches Fall In Cameron Area

Slightly over 2 inches of rain Saturday and Sunday raised crop prospects in Milam County and brought cooling relief from near record temperatures for mid-May.

The general Central Texas rains came when they were most needed, according to area farmers and ranchers, and brought predictions of better than average grain and cotton crops.

Lawrence Mueck, who farms in the Salem area, said cotton is about a foot tall and grain is standing at about 2 feet. He said only average rainfall will be needed from now until the crops mature.

He said the grain in his area would probably mature about July 5 and would be considered an average crop although not as high as last year.

"Generally it does look good at this point" Mueck added.

Other Milam area farmers are equally optimistic.

Temperatures and rainfall in Cameron for the past week were:

Lokos Gains Stay In 'Bama Courts

John Lokos, one of four men arrested in Milam County December 16 on charges of murder in Alabama and armed robbery in Alabama, Texas and Oklahoma, was granted a stay of execution by Alabama courts. He was sentenced to die in the electric chair May 17. Sheriff Carl Black said.

Sheriff Black said he had been notified by Sumter County, Alabama authorities that Lokos had been granted a stay until August 11 on a request for a new trial.

Lokos' attorney charged errors in the January 1964 trial that sentenced him to death.

Lokos and his ex-carnival worker companions Gerald June Eaton, Harold Leon Edwards and Clarence Cecil Coon, were captured in Buckholts following a 4-state crime spree which had started in Cameron when they broke into Wied Hardware. Later the same night they entered the J. D. Lewis home in Buckholts, ransacked the home taking money and valuables and their car and left the couple tied in an area on the banks of Little River.

The week-long spree continued in Oklahoma and Louisiana. In Alabama they kidnapped Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Culpepper and were found guilty of beating, shooting and slaying Mr. Culpepper. They returned to Buckholts, supposedly to rob the Buckholts bank, where they were apprehended following an extensive manhunt.

Eaton, Edwards and Koon remain in Kilby Prison at Montgomery, Ala. Each has received a stay of execution this year. Eaton's March 31 execution date was reset for June 30 so he could appear as a witness in a new trial granted Edwards.

Edwards' second trial, April 11, ended in a finding of guilty and his execution was set for July. Coon also is sentenced to die in the electric chair this summer.

Pleas for clemency have been denied Coon and Lokos by Gov. George Wallace.

Cold, Rain Limits CCC Golf Entries In 37th Tourney

Heavy rains and cold winds limited entries in the Cameron Country Clubs 37th annual golf tournament Saturday and Sunday.

Tournament chairman J. Z. Krall said 71 Central Texas golfers braved the weather to play on the local greens. The Cameron tournament, one of the oldest in the area, has drawn up to 150 golfers in past years.

Darrell Davis of Thorndale scored a 70 net for 18 holes to lead the tournament. John Jacobs of Waco scored a 72 net for second place in 1st flight and Carl Stried of Waco scored 73 for third place.

In the 2nd flight, Dr. H. B. Halbert of Rosebud had a 78 net for first place, Bob Ellett of Cameron was second with 80 and Dr. Gus Evans, of Cameron third with an 81 net.

Adult Literacy Workshop Set

If you have an extra nine hours, you can learn how to teach someone to read. The Cameron Literacy Council is sponsoring a literacy workshop in the Cameron Public Library on May 26 and 27. Mrs. Marion Vann, director of the Baylor Literacy Center, will conduct the workshop.

The opening session is scheduled from 7 to 10 p.m. on Friday, May 26. On Saturday the workshoppers will re-convene at 9:30 and take a half-hour noon break. The workshop will be concluded at 4 p.m.

This will be the second literacy workshop in Cameron and 8 volunteer teachers are presently teaching adults to read. The first workshop followed a survey of Milam County residents which showed approximately one-tenth of the county population were non-readers.

"We welcome anyone who would like to attend to meet with us," Edward P. Magre, president of the Cameron Literacy Council, said.

The workshop will offer demonstration and practice of the Laubach Literacy method. Teacher's manuals and student books necessary for the workshop are available through the Baylor Book Store, Mrs. Vann said.

Belton Patrolman Employed For CPD

Donald Castello, 33, former patrolman of Belton Police Dept., has joined the Cameron Police Dept. as night patrolman, according to City Secretary Buddy Fuller.

He is the second addition in as many weeks.

Last week, Ray Griffin, 33, of Marlin, was named police chief for Cameron. He assumes duties June 1.

Griffin is a native of Rosebud and has worked in the Falls County Sheriff's office, and is presently a Marlin Police Dept. patrolman.

Castello began work Tuesday night. His wife and children will move to Cameron when schools close in Belton.

14 Students To Work Under NYC Program

Fourteen students, nine boys and five girls, will be assisting in Cameron Public schools this summer with maintenance and pre-school work.

They will work 10 weeks, until August 19, under the Neighborhood Youth Corps program.

Supt. D. R. Dodson said $3,500 has been made available under the program.

MARTIN WELL POTENTIAL IS 56 BARRELS

Luling Oil and Gas Company filed potential test figures last week on its new discovery, the No. 1 Joe Martin, which showed the wildcat flowed 56 barrels of oil per day and no water on one-fourth inch choke during the test.

This 56 barrels per day figure makes the well one of the best producers discovered in Milam County in recent years. However, it falls short of the rumors that cropped up after the Joe Martin was brought in as a flowing well two weeks ago which ranged from 70 to 200 barrels per day.

The well is producing from the Wilcox on perforations between 2,655-58 feet.

It is the second Wilcox discovery in south Milam and extends the new Milbur Field there. The Huber Corporation's No. 2 H. H. Coffield Unit, located about a mile from the Martin, opened the field with its 84 barrel per day discovery shortly after the first of the year. The well also is about a half mile northeast of the old General Crude No. 1 Perry deep test which was plugged back and completed in the Navarro as a 21 barrel per day producer in 1958.

The Joe Martin is located in Smith Vincent Survey six miles south of Milano and near an area where the H. L. Hunt interests of Dallas have been assembling a large lease block according to leases filed in recent weeks.

There's a great lesson in blowing bubbles. We're so sure we can blow the biggest bubble ever blown. And, for a second, we're sure we have.

Then the bubble is gone . . . with it our unreasoning self-confidence. So we content ourselves with blowing smaller bubbles — the biggest smaller bubbles we can . . . the kind of bubbles that last awhile!

The best time for your child to begin religious training is before he becomes conscious of his limitations. When he starts gradually to recognize the boundaries of his ability, he'll need real guidance and encouragement in devoting himself to goals which last awhile.

The rich, full, happy, useful life is not wasted on shallow dreams that are but for the moment. It is dedicated to doing one's best.

And, for centuries, it has been our Faith, taught and nurtured in our churches, which has inspired in men their best.

Our Present, Their Future . . .

The Herald joins dozens of firms in the Milam area saluting the graduates of Yoe High School, Buckholts, Milano and Rogers High Schools.

Their pictures appear on these pages this week.

The present generation wants to be "involved" and, having paused for high school matriculation, will be.

Graduates are admonished this way and that, but the final choice, as always, is theirs. Parents and friends can advise and share pride in accomplishment and encourage, but the young must act.

They face sober alternatives, not that they can not "laugh," as Horatio Alger once trumpeted, "at adversity."

They must be "well rounded" in a computerized economy, loyal in Vietnam war amidst internationalizing society, sophisticated in a world seeking bedrock values, personable in an impersonal world.

Their generation has sought counsel from their parents, returned from World War II, and found plenty of competition at home. Some of this nation's graduate corp joins rebellion in the street and anarchy in manner, dress and character. More than ever, they seek help.

Graduates are better educated for now, but are likely to find that education obsolete in a few years after college or technical training. Where do they "pin the tail on this donkey?"

Many grow up, seeking to adhere to basic concepts, and are told, as young adults, that much about honor and truth and loyalty is debunked by fact. And parents and friends wonder why they weren't more frank.

The incubation period, in a time of war, is brief, and a young man, bright as a silver dollar and handsome as some mythological Greek warrior, may find himself squirming through a rice paddy in Southeast Asia.

Graduates have a lot of ways to turn.

We who watch them graduate can only hope our present was good enough for their future.

Lawmakers Near May 29 Wind-Up

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN

Final minutes are ticking away in the biennial legislative game of "beat the clock."

Obviously, the wind-up of the 60th session will be a cliff-hanger As lawmakers move toward the May 29 finish line, the major jobs they came to Austin to accomplish remain unfinished.

THE BUDGET -- It went to conference committee, following an unsuccessful attempt by Gov. John Connally and Speaker Ben Barnes to sell the Senate on accepting the House appropriations bill without the traditional conference to adjust differences. House Bill calls for $448,300,000 in general revenue; Senate Bill, $437,700,000.

REDISTRICTING -- A Senate Congressional Redistricting Bill would save all incumbent congressmen the agony of having to run against a calleague. But the House Judicial Districts Committee has drawn different lines. So this issue must go to conference committee for an 11th hour compromise. State House of Representatives districts also must be redrawn. But the Senate has little interest in that. Judicial redistricting appears to be impossibly snarled once more.

SCHOOL TEACHER PAY -- Both houses agree there must be a raise. Major problem is to determine the amount.

Although revenue in sight from the Comptroller's last official estimate won't cover the budgets drawn by either house, plus a teacher pay raise of the magnitude sought, legislative leaders still insist adjustments will make the money possible without a tax bill.

Speculation is widespread that the lawmakers can't finish the job on schedule but top leaders are hopeful they can avoid a special session by covering the clock for a few days.

DRIVERS LICENSE CHANGE -- Major changes in Texas drivers license laws have been approved by both houses.

Bill increases minimum age for license from 15 to 16 for those who complete approved driver training courses and to 18 for those without such training. Hardship licenses are permitted for 15-year-olds where there is a licensed adult driver in the front seat. Motor scooter and motorcycle operators must be at least 15, and for commercial licenses, 17.

Present licenses will be replaced by a plastic card with a color photograph of the driver. New ones will be good for four instead of two years and will cost $6 instead of $3. Drivers may be required to take a new competency examination when they apply for a new license. However, re-examination is not compulsory, as proposed in the original bill.

License suspension period for violations was increased from six to 12 months for the first offense and from 12 to 18 months for repeat offenses, subject to the court's discretion. Driving while license is suspended will be punishable by fines up to $500 and a maximum of six months in jail.

HORSE RACING -- Voters will be given an opportunity to express their opinion on whether Texas should legalize horse-race betting, if the House agrees with the Senate to put the question on the ballot in the Democratic and Republican primaries next May.

Senate passed the bill by Sen. V. E. Berry of San Antonio, long an advocate of horse-race betting, and sent it to the House for its concurrence. Actually the bill, as passed by the Senate, would not require the parties to put the question on the ballot but would permit and encourage them to.

AIR BASE PURCHASE O.K'D -- Both houses have agreed that James Connally Air Force Base at Waco should be purchased by the state for $5,200,000. The 2,100-acre base with 1,141 buildings now is under lease for a state vocational and technical training institute.

Money for its purchase is expected to be written into the final version of the 1968 appropriations bill.

ELECTION CODE CLEAN-UP -- Although the Legislature approved general terms of a major election code overhaul, the two houses differed over provision to permit counties to employ low-cost electronic vote recording-counting devices.

Senate struck the electronic machine section from the original bill, but the House put it back in and returned amended measures to the Senate.

Major features of the redrawn code will standardize the ballot form; change city election dates to the first Saturday in April; raise maximum pay for election judges and clerks to $1.25 an hour; permit new state residents to vote in presidential elections before they have resided in Texas a year; allow consolidation of election precincts for minor elections; and substitute senatorial district conventions for county conventions in counties having multiple districts extending beyond their own boundaires.

PROPERTY TAX VOTE SET -- State of Texas will wipe out 37 cents of the 47 cents per $100 property tax by 1977 if Texas voters give their approval at a constitutional amendment election in November, 1968.

Proposed amendment received the necessary two-thirds vote of both houses for submission. This even though opponents warned that the $48,000,000 in lost revenue will have to be made up from other tax sources -- and that local governmental units will snap up the additional leeway on property taxes.

State levy on property would begin declining in 1969. Remaining 10 cents of the present tax would be retained for college building purposes.

OIL PRODUCTION LINE HELD Railroad Commission set June oil production alowable at 33.8 percent. This is the same as May although demand for Texas crude is expected to increase next month.

June allowable factor will permit a maximum protection of 3,046,218 barrels daily. Factor dropped four straight months before last week's hold-the-line order. Prior to the January peak of 37.5 percent, it was increased four successive months.

U. S. Bureau of Mines predicts that the June demand for Texas crude oil will increase 50,000 barrels. But the Commission feels that stocks throughout the U. S. are excessive now.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editar:

One of the fine things about reading a newspaper is that a man can find such a wide choice of things in it about human nature he can't understand.

For exmaple, I have been puzzling for days now over an item I read in a newspaper last week. According to it, a bunch of art experts inspected a Texas oil man's collection of paintings and decided three-fourths of them were fakes.

Now up to then, the pictures had suited the owner, his friends liked them, everybody was impressed, but now that the experts say they are fakes, all the pleasure has disappeared.

I don't understand this. I knew a 4-year old once who wouldn't eat any apple on Christmas morning except the one Santa Claus put in her stocking, but in a couple of years she had come to the notion that it didn't make any difference where an apple came from so long as it tasted good. Couldn't tell by biting into it whether it came from the grocery store or the North Pole.

I heard of a western rancher once who found out Kansas City steaks were somehow considered better than any others and hence brought a little better price, so he shipped his cattle to a town in Kansas, held them there a week, then took them on into Kansas City and sold them and got a big laugh out of all the people there who were eating fake steaks.

Understand, I'm not qualified to discuss art, I'm not even qualified to discuss farming if you get right down to it, but I can't figure out a business where you have to call in an expert to tell you whether or not you should like a given painting.

Of course if you're going into the financial aspects of it, that's a different matter. An original by a celebrated artist naturally is worth more than a copy, the same as it is with a dollar bill, but that's for exchange purposes, not for looking at.

It's a good racket, though, and I wish I could get in on it. Can you tell me how I can convince the public the "J.A." brand of watermelons, if it was originally grown by me, is worth a hundred times the ordinary kind?

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Sorghum Midge Appearing Early

Sorghum midge were identified in grain sorghum at Maysfield on May 17, by Ronald Bailey, ass't. agent, and H. M. Yager. The midge were in maize bordered by heavy Johnson grass infestation. Johnson grass is a host plant for the midge and these insects begin their life cycles in the grass each spring before moving into maize crops the latter part of June.

The midge started migrating into maize last year during the last weekend in June. Due to the early spring and continued warm weather, we expect an early migration of midge during the last of May and first of June. These insects can be controlled by applying Ethion, Diazinon, Parathion, Toxaphene or Sevin when 90 percent of the maize heads appear.

Because of the late maturing cotton last fall, a heavy population of boll weevils hibernated during the winter and are already doing damage to early cotton squares. Farmers may want to add Parathion to their thrip dosages for boll weevil control.

Even though farmers used a systemic soil application for thrip control in seedling cotton, an unusual large number of thrip have damaged treated as well as untreated cotton. Farmers are applying a 2-1 mixture for thrip control. Parathion added to this dosage would help control the over-wintered weevils.

Walter Lester reports good control of all underwater weeds and moss in his farm pond. He used Karmex, a cotton herbicide which is becoming very popular as a means of economical weed control in farm ponds. According to Wallace Klussman, wildlife specialist at A&M, two pounds of the 80 percent powdered Karmex per surface acre of water will give good control of all underwater weeds and moss growth.

DDT Should Not Be Used Near Dairy Farms And Forage Crops

COLLEGE STATION

DDT residues in excess of recently established tolerance in milk have been reported in some areas of Texas. Improper application and-or the application of DDT near dairy farms and forage crops that are to be used as feed for dairy animals may be responsible for the trouble, explains Charles W. Neeb, area Extension entomologist.

The protection of crops, near dairy farms and-or forage crops, from insect damage with insecticide applications should not include DDT, advises Neeb. DDT should not be applied nor allowed to drift into forage crops that are to be fed to dairy animals or to animals being finished for slaughter, he adds.

He suggests that cotton growers close to dairy farms and forage crop fields use carbaryl (Sevin) spray applications for pink bollworm an dcotton bollowrm control. Carbaryl sprays will satisfactorily control pink bollworms and cotton bollworms however, it may be necessary to add methyl parathion to the carbaryl spray. Methyl parathion should be used with caution where there is danger of direct drift onto animals, warns the entomologist.

As a general guide to the limitations of using insecticides containing DDT for crop protection, DDT sprays should not be applied within one-fourth mile of forage crops and dairy farms.

Cotton producers are urged to keep the use limitations of DDT in mind when choosing insecticides to be used on their crops.

Metal Scraps In Pastures Danger To Farm Animals

By John E. Snell
Assoc. County Agent

Farm animals, for some unexplained reason, seem to have a liking for small bits of wire, nails, scraps of hardware, screws, and bolts. Many owners have been made aware of this fact through the loss of a valuable animal.

The damage is usually caused by irritation or puncture from swallowing the object: Most cases the loss can be prevented by removing wire fences which are weak from rust before small bits of the wire drop into the grass and become a hazard to grazing livestock. After a construction job in the barnyard area has been completed, it is worth the time and effort to sweep the area thoroughly or drag it with a sweep of permanent magnets.

It is difficult to detect and remove trash metal from ground feed. Some type of magnet should be installed in home grinding mills and mixers.

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure. It is possible to remove almost 100 percent of trash metal from feed, pastures and barnyards just by following good housekeeping practices as a part of the livestock management program.

Home Accident Statistics Show Falls Top List Of Fatal Injuries

COLLEGE STATION

"Safe at home" means a baseball player can relax for a while -- but American homeowners who take safety for granted are "out in left field."

Leota C. Lane, Extension family life specialist at Texas A&M University, reports that 28,000 persons are killed in home accidents each year. About 25 million home accidents occur which cause injuries requiring medical attention. These statisitcs indicate that one's home can be a downright dangerous place.

American Medical Association records indicate that falls are the second most common cause of accidental death, next to highway accidents. Falls in and around the home each year cause injuries to nearly seven million people and 12,000 deaths.

Falls account for more than half of the fatal accidents for people over 65 years old, and about 75 percent of these falls occur at home. Falls on stairs cause nearly 2,000 fatal injuries each year. Proper lighting and sturdy handrails on stairs are important factors in home safety for adults and children alike.

A light switch near the door of each room is an invaluable safety measure. Loose rugs, scattered toys, and extension cords are safety hazards in any home. Spilled grease or water on floors are additional causes of falls and are particularly dangerous for older people.

Safe equipment should be provided for reaching high places, emphasizes Miss Lane. Never use boxes, chairs, or other home furnishings for climbing to get things from hard-to-reach places. "Fall-proof" your home. Keep your family "safe at home."

NEW MESQUITE CONTROL

A relatively new hormone-type herbicide, picloram, in combination with the well known 2,4,5-T has shown superior results in mesquite control on West Texas ranges. Picloram, however, is not yet U. S. Department of Agriculture-approved for rangeland use. Further testing is necessary.

Former Rockdale IGC Manager Elected President Of TP&L

Suceeding Austin as executive vice-president will be Charles W. Wooldridge who served previously as vice-president in charge of engineering, construction, transportation and purchasing. He also is a TP&L director.

In other board action, George W. Beams was promoted from vice-president to senior vice-president. Also, W. G. Button, an assistant vice-president, was named vice-president in charge of operations for the Company.

Austin became executive vice-president and director of TP&L in 1966. He served previously as assistant to the president and as vice-president in charge of operations. He joined TP&L in 1939 after spending six years as an official of the Industrial Generating Company at Rockdale.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

What Price Beauty?

Skin deep or not, beauty is precious to most people. Both men and women, as a rule, are acutely conscious of their physical attractiveness—or lack of it.

So it is not surprising that people hurt in accidents often seek damages not just for injury to their limbs but also for injury to their looks.

Should that kind of compensation be awarded at all? The law's answer is yes. Even though a scar is not disabling in the same way as a limp or an ache, disfigurement can be a real and serious handicap.

The biggest problem lies in deciding how much the damages should be. How do you put a price on the harm done by a scar?

The courts generally take into account both the characteristics of the victim and the characteristics of the scar itself. Thus, in particular cases, the following facts have lent weight to a damage claim:

1) that the victim was a girl ("scars on the face of a female are ordinarily regarded as more objectionable than on the face of a male");

2) that the victim had a job (as an actor) in which appearance mattered a great deal;

3) that the scar had an unpleasant side effect (distorted a young man's smile).

On the other hand, damages will be less if the scar can be mended by simple plastic surgery—or if it is in a place where it would not ordinarily be seen.

What if the mere display of a scar to the jury would be shocking or indecent? That could improperly inflame the emotions of the jury. Such a display may be forbidden, usually at the discretion of the trial judge.

However, in most cases, the judge will rely on the jurors to draw fair conclusions from what they see.

In one case, involving an injury to a young woman's knee, the defense attorney objected to an inspection by the jury. He noted that the plaintiff was young, charming, and beautiful—and that the jurors were all men.

But the court overruled his objection, commenting:

"She is entitled to resort to the same proofs that she might have resorted to if she had been aged, ugly, and repulsive."

Herald Offers Unique Combination Of Youth - Experience In Journalism

The Cameron Herald is a unique institution.

It is said to be the oldest newspaper west of the Brazos River, founded as the Centinel in 1860, and one of the 10 oldest in Texas.

Its staff has an average age of 35 and through the years has averanged about the 30-year mark.

Its editor was 11 years ago one of the youngest editor-publishers in U.S. suburban journalism.

Its staff has included local young men and women who, with or without college training, have worked on the staffs of Texas metropolitan dailies as writers and editors.

Robert Mann at 22 is one of the youngest night city editors in the U.S. at the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Another former staffer, James Hollas, has just received the Doc Sellers Journalism Scholarship at Texas University Journalism Department as a junior. He worked three years as writer and sports copy editor for the Corpus Christi Caller-Times. He is also a sports copy editor for the Austin Statesman.

Feature-oil editor Lloyd Albertson has been published in the Houston Chronicle magazine section and his Herald reports on oil are cited in other metropolitan papers.

Linda Hill, once an editorial assistant here, is an honor student in pre-journalism at Texas Tech. She and James are working their way through school. Robert worked his way through Sam Houston State where he edited the SHSTC paper.

The Herald two years ago installed its third newspaper press in 10 years in an attempt to keep pace with developments. Equipment throughout the newspaper and job printing departments have been updated.

Herald news, editorials and special sections in 10 years have won recognition from Texas Press Association, Central Texas Soil Conservation District (twice), Boy Scouts of America, International Association of Lions Clubs, Disabled American Veterans (Texas) among others.

Management has been active in Texas Press Association and as members of its committees and boards. Staffers have been invited to six-state regional seminars on Foreign policy by U.S. Department of State.

Through controversy, it has followed one of the admonitions of Walter Williams, founder of the Journalism School of the University of Missouri: " the supreme test of good journalism is the measure of its public service."

Readers may recall special sections over the years drawing public interest, including: candidate sections of 1958, 1960, and 1962; Centennial edition; a 1963 soil conservation section; 11 consecutive graduation sections among others.

Special coverage has included the 1963 assassination of President Kennedy in Dallas, the 1963 manhunt in Buckholts, the impact of Hurricane Carla on Cameron in 1961 and numerous special pages and features.

Size of The Herald remains standard, number of pages standard, but it was one of the first rural weeklies in Texas to run continuous two-color ads during 1960.

It is a young-old, privately-owned, public institution, still here after 108 years.

Outdoors In Texas

By Vern Sanford

Night coon hunting with dogs has developed into a great sport in Texas.

Successful coon hunting takes a special breed of men and dogs. Just anyone can't take it. It is an arduous sport. But it's one filled with many thrills.

Throughout Texas there are a number of local coon hunt clubs, and somewhere every weekend there is an outstanding coon hunt. Also, there is a state club that holds annual meetings. Featured are coon dog trials that last nearly a week. During this period, dog swapping and lie swapping reach their peak.

Coon hunting is encouraged by landowners in many areas and tolerated in others. Since it is impossible to confine either coons or dogs to one barbed-wire enclosure, fence crossing is a necessity. Coon hunters must (or should) get landowner permission.

Also, it is advisable to keep the game warden informed of coon hunts. If the warden catches a hunter in known deer area, with a light and a gun, it could lead to trouble . . . or call for a lot of explaining.

Most of us think of coonskin coats in connection with coon hunting. However, there are people who like to eat coons. A recent issue of Hunting Dog, a new magazine published in Greenfield, Ohio, and devoted to all types of sporting dogs, provides interesting recipes for cooking coons.

Here is a recipe, simplified, for your own testing of this delicacy:

Thoroughly clean the game and soak it overnight in salt-water. Rinse in three washes to remove all traces of the saltwater.

Cook in a deep roasting pan, with the following ingredients: 2 or 3 chopped onions; carrots and two or three sticks of celery. Cook in a covered pan at 350 degrees for one-half hour. Cool, then remove from water and rub the inside with 2 parts of salt and 1 part pepper, plus a dash of paprika.

Skim off the fat from the broth, saving one cup for the dressing, mixed as follows:

2 or more quarts of bread crumbs; 1 teaspoon of salt; ¼ tsp pepper; 1-½ tsp poultry seasoning; 1 beaten egg; 1 chopped onion; 1 cored, sliced apple; and 1 cup of broth or milk.

Stuff the coon and skewer as you would a turkey. Cook at 350 degrees until tender, basting occasionally. Draw off the fat. Let it brown without sticking to the pan. Serve hot with cored apple for each serving.

If you want gravy, skim off the fat and use broth with a mixture of salt, flour and water.

Roast possum is another delicacy seldom found on tables, except in some areas of East Texas. Roast possum is very delicious, baked with sweet 'taters, much as you would roast a young pig. Or it can be barbecued.

It must be kept in mind, however, that both coons and possums have considerable fat. In baking the possum, it definitely should cool and then skim off the fat. It is well to do this before adding the sweet potatoes.

Coons and possums are mostly winter-time dishes because the flesh is much better and not so strong at that time.

Either will barbecue well, as will rabbits or squirrels. It requires a longer time and a slower heat for wild game, because of its characteristic toughness. These animals are active, as opposed to pen raised animals or birds. As a result, they have developed a toughness that requires more cooking.

Diplomatic Pouch

WASHINGTON K.C. The following letters were recently answered by the Department of State.
U.S.-Korea, 1871

I am seeking information about the United States' activities in Korea in the year 1871. Would you be able to suggest sources of information on this subject?

L. S.
Rifle, Colo.

Dear Mr. S.:

Enclosed is a summary record of United States activities in Korea in 1871, from an out-of-print publication of the Department entitled A Historical Summary of United States-Korean Relations: With a Chronology of Important Developments, 1834-1962 (Washington, 1962) Details of the Low expedition are contained in the report of Admiral Rogers, printed in The Annual Report of the Secretary of the Navy.. for the Year 1871 (Washington, 1871), pages 275-313. Low's dispatches relating to the mission to Korea are printed in Papers Relating to the Foreign Relations of the United States, 1871 (Washington, 1871), pages 73-74 and 111-153.

An unofficial work which may be of assistance to you is E. M. Cable's United States-Korean Relations, 1866-1871 (1939). The Department of State, of course, cannot assume responsibility for the accuracy of information in unofficial publications. If the works mentioned are not available at libraries in your area, presumably they are obtainable through them on interlibrary loan.

Treaty Life-Spans

I am writing this letter for our eleventh grade history class in regards to a question which came up during a class discussion. Could you please give us some information as to why, when the United States or any other nation makes a treaty, they always last for 99 and not 100 years?

R. E.
Ojai, Cal.

Dear Mr. E.:

Contary to the assumption expressed in your letter, it is not customary for treaties to provide that they shall remain in effect for 99 years.

It is customary for a treaty, either bilateral (between two nations), or multilateral, to provide that it shall remain in force for a specified term of years (usually 5 or 10 years, but possibly for a longer period). In the case of a bilateral treaty, it may be subject to termination by either nation, the termination to be effective upon the expiration of a specified period (usually 6 months or a year after either of the parties has given to the other party a notice of intention to terminate it. Multilateral treaties may permit denunciation by any nation a party thereto, in which case a nation may give a notice of denunciation effective upon the expiration of a specified period (usually 6 months or a year) after the date of such notice.

In some instances, the treaty may not contain any provision at all regarding the duration of its effectiveness, or regarding the right of a party to terminate or denounce it. Multilateral examples are the Charter of the United Nations which was signed at San Francisco on June 26, 1945, and the Treaty of Peace with Japan, dated at San Francisco September 8, 1951. An example of a bilateral treaty which contains no provision regarding duration or termination is the Convention for the Cession to the United States of the Danish West Indies, signed at New York on August 4, 1916, between the United States and Denmark.
